Graphic Design Minor

The Graphic Design minor immerses students in the indispensable and expansive field of Graphic Design. Students participate in critically engaged studio classes to develop their own viewpoint and practice, while creating books, posters, websites, campaigns, identities, and conceptual propositions using the considered interplay of text and image. A dynamic curriculum empowers students to creatively solve problems, propose alternatives, and work collaboratively to address the communication challenges of today. This minor includes courses designed to familiarize students with graphic design principles, skills, and professional practices, as well as an Art History course intended to provide a historical and theoretical understanding of the field.

Eligibility
The Graphic Design minor is open to students majoring in Digital Media and Fine Arts. Because of their major curricular requirements Architecture/Landscape/Interiors, Fashion Design, Product Design and Toy Design will only be approved to enroll on a case-by-case basis. Graphic Design minors may participate in the Communication Arts Department's senior show on a case-by-case basis with approval from the Department Chair.
