Why do people behave as they do? The Cultural Studies Minor gives students the opportunity to explore this question within this exciting field through coursework, independent study, on-site field research and an internship. Students will learn to make connections between their artistic skills and education and academic and public sector culture work through both analytical and practical applications of cultural studies.

Eligibility

Open to Communication Arts, Digital Media, Fine Arts and Product Design, Architecture/Landscape/Interiors and Toy Design majors are eligible on a case-by-case basis, with approval from their respective Department Chairs, and may require course approvals and/or additional credits over 130 to complete.

* These courses can be taken either fall or spring semester

 A limited choice of IL Sophomore Lectures and Liberal Studies Electives will count towards the Cultural Studies minor, as determined each semester by the LAS department

 Liberal Studies Capstone must have a Cultural Studies focus and students should arrange to work on it over the summer of their junior year. Fine Arts majors will enroll in a Fine Arts section of Capstone, but must select a Cultural Studies faculty as an additional reader in order to fulfill the requirement of both their major and minor.
