BERTIL PETERSSON "MINI-MONUMENTALS" OTIS (BFA '74)

According to Otis BFA graduate, Bertil Petersson, "Public art should, in principle, engage the public to discourse, enhance the site it occupies and connect concepts for the viewer to contemplate. Public art also has to answer the question of relevancy over time, the continuous dialogue of the work with the public on all levels. It should be educational, challenging, and inspiring, allowing the public to relate in a personal way to the work, in a manner that will hopefully evolve over time as the person changes." Now you too can engage with Petersson's "Mini Monuments." Special thanks to Bertil Petersson.

SALVATORE FERRAGAMO ORIGINAL DESIGN RAINBOW WEDGE INSPIRED BY JUDY GARLAND'S "OVER THE RAINBOW"

In 1914, Salvatore Ferragamo emigrated to the United States where he found success initially opening a shop for repair and ultimately a long period of designing footwear for the cinema. When he could not understand why his shoes pleased the eye yet hurt the foot, he proceeded to study anatomy at USC. His scientific and creative approach to design led to innovations including the wedge and cage heels. And in 1938 he was inspired by Judy Garland to design the rainbow wedge named "Over the Rainbow." Special thanks to Jon Borland and Ferragamo.

CERAMICS CLASS OR PARTY FOR 8 GUESTS

In the 1950s Otis was known for its ceramics, especially through Peter Voulkos and Ken Price who revolutionized the ceramic world. Carrying on the tradition at Otis, Joan Takayama-Ogawa comes from a family that for six generations has been interested in ceramics, reaching back to relatives who produced pottery in Japan. Joan's memorable ceramics are in the permanent collections of the Smithsonian Institution, DeYoung Museum Fine Arts in San Francisco, and LACMA to name just a few. Now you and seven of your family and friends can learn from a master! Enjoy a class or party in the ceramics studio at Otis. Special thanks to Joan Takayama-Ogawa.

A BEVY OF BALLY: CUSTOM SHOES, A HANDBAG AND A PRIVATE LUNCH FOR SIX

During a business trip to Paris in 1849, Carl Franz Bally wanted to buy his wife some lace-up booties - the popular shoe of the day. Unable to recall her exact size, he decided to buy twelve pairs in a range of sizes, knowing that one would certainly fit. Upon visiting the Parisian factory where the booties were made, he noticed that each shoe featured buttons with elastic closures similar to the kind his family produced in Switzerland. Inspired by the possibility of creating more jobs and improving the lives of local residents, he decided to expand his existing business into shoe production. Thus the legendary company was born! Celebrate Carl Franz, your new shoes and handbag with lunch for six on the gorgeous rooftop of their store in Beverly Hills!

Special thanks to Bally, Nancy Perez, Pilar Pearson and Carolyn Mahboubi.
