College Recognized Organization (CRO) Policy

Otis College of Art and Design provides opportunities for student engagement that create contexts for student learning and a strong sense of community among students, faculty, and staff. One of the most powerful means by which this is accomplished is through participation in recognized student clubs and organizations.

The College understands that student organizations and activities are vital to the educational process and encourages all campus-affiliated groups to make full use of College facilities when their meetings are part of their college work, or a logical outgrowth thereof.

Being a member of a club or organization is a rewarding opportunity. Members of organizations obtain leadership skills, meet new people, and form lifelong relationships.

The information on this web-page is designed to serve as a training guide to leading a successful student organization and allow members of each club to understand what is expected, as a whole.

VIOLATIONS OF POLICIES

If a College Recognized Organization (CRO) violates college regulations or policy, the College has the responsibility of disciplining that organization, using the code of student conduct and the protocol outlined below. The Director of Student Activities is responsible for monitoring the compliance of student organizations with college regulations and policies. Complaints about a CRO should be forwarded to the Office of Student Activities for consideration and action by contacting the Director of Student Activities directly, or submitting a formal report using the Student Conduct Reporting Form.

When a complaint or a report of a violation of a college regulation or policy is received by the Director of Student Activities, it shall be treated in the following manner:

1. The Director of Student Activities will follow up on the initial report and assess the validity of the violation.

2. If the alleged violation warrants a formal investigation, the Director of Student Activities will submit a formal Student Conduct Report and recommend to the Dean of Student Affairs that a conduct process ensue.

3. The Code of Student Conduct process as outlined in the Hoot will be followed, using the student organization as the “respondent” in the conduct case, with the named executive leaders of the student organizations as individuals responsible for responding to the Student Conduct process, attending hearings, and carrying out any directives outline by the College.
4. If the student organization is found responsible for alleged violations, disciplinary action will be taken against the offending college recognized organization, and its executive leadership members.

5. All appeal processes will remain as outlined within the student handbook, The Hoot.

If the student organization is found responsible for the policy violation(s), the Student Conduct Panel adjudicating the case will make a recommendation to the Director of Student Activities and Dean of Student Affairs regarding appropriate disciplinary sanctions.

Possible Disciplinary Sanctions:

1. Probation: A CRO can be placed on probation for a specified period of time without the withdrawal of privileges granted to college organizations.

2. Probation and withholding of College granted privileges: A CRO placed on probation may be restricted from use of college facilities and/or all other privileges afforded a College Recognized Organization, including requesting club funds from CAB.

3. Club Suspension: Club is suspended for a time frame outlined by the Dean of Student Affairs. The club cannot function as an “active” club, which means no campus programs, no club meetings, etc. until the suspension period has been met.

4. Withdrawal of Recognition: A CRO may have its recognition completely withdrawn for a specified period of time. During this time Otis College will not recognize this club as an affiliated organization whatsoever.

5. Any sanction noted in the Code of Student Conduct.

The disciplinary action taken against a College Recognized Organization does not exempt disciplinary action from being taken against individual members of the organization who were responsible for the violations of regulations and policies. Correspondingly, the disciplining of individuals does not preclude disciplining of the organization for actions taken for and by the organization and its members.
