

OTIS

Otis College of Art and Design
9045 Lincoln Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90045
Telephone 310 665 6800 Website www.otis.edu

aperturefoundation

MEDIA RELEASE - FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: September, 2007
Contact: Kathy MacPherson, gallerinfo@otis.edu, 310.665.6909. Images available.

The Ben Maltz Gallery at Otis College of Art and Design is pleased to present the exhibition:

Shaolin: Temple of Zen, Photographs by Justin Guariglia
February 2 – March 29, 2008

Public Reception: Saturday, February 2, 5-7pm

With special kung fu and calligraphy demonstration by Shaolin Monk Shi De Chao from Henan, China, followed by book signing hosted by Hennessey + Ingalls Art & Architecture Books.

Events in conjunction with the exhibition (see detailed information below):

Monday, February 4, 7:30pm, Ben Maltz Gallery

Conversation with photographer Justin Guariglia of National Geographic Traveler; Gene Ching, Associate Publisher of Kung Fu Tai Chi Magazine; and Craig Reid, martial arts film historian, fight choreographer and martial artist.

Monday, February 25, 7:30pm, Ben Maltz Gallery

Cultural Representation in the Media

A panel discussion with Félix Gutiérrez, Lena Chao-Young, Clint Wilson; led by Otis Director of Art History Parme Giuntini.

Friday, February 29, 8pm, Ahmanson Bldg B06

A Night of Hong Kong Kung Fu Cinema

Double feature screening of The 36th Chamber of Shaolin (1978) and Eight Diagram Pole Fighter (1983) both directed by Liu Chia-Liang; with introduction by Craig Reid.

Exhibition Information

Shaolin: Temple of Zen is a photography exhibition based on the book of the same name by photographer Justin Guariglia published by Aperture. The exhibition premieres at the Ben Maltz Gallery on Saturday, February 2, 2008 with a public reception from 5-7pm that includes a walk-through with the photographer as well as a special kung fu and calligraphy demonstration by Shaolin Monk Shi De Chao from Henan, China, followed by book signing. On view through March 29, this exhibition and publication are organized by the Aperture foundation, a not-for-profit organization devoted to photography and the visual arts, and presented at the Ben Maltz Gallery at Otis College of Art and Design. Additional sponsorship provided by Hahnemühle Fine Art.

Shaolin: Temple of Zen is an exhibition and publication that documents, for the first time in history, the exceptionally private warrior monks of the fifteen-hundred-year-old Shaolin Temple in the Henan province of China, renowned for its association with Zen Buddhism and martial arts. Comprised of 99 pieces, including 6 video installations, Shaolin: Temple of Zen brings to light the secretive society of the Chinese Buddhist sect dedicated to preserving a form of kung fu known as a “vehicle of Zen.” Revealing the monks’ devotional disciplines and capturing insightful portraits of the venerated warriors, the works offer an exclusive opportunity to explore the energy and spirit of Shaolin’s unique practice.

Guariglia’s work explores the nature of ‘qi’ (pronounced chee), the concept of a universal energy, as well as the themes of ritual, spirituality, and Eastern philosophies through still photography and video. Carmen Winant of Philadelphia Weekly asserts that “the imagery simultaneously seethes with energy and casts a meditative silence. It evokes both the ancient and the contemporary.”

A student in China in the mid 90s, Guariglia took an interest in Taoist and Buddhist philosophies, spending eight years studying the mystery behind the Shaolin art form. He earned the trust of the Shaolin monks to create a compassionate record of the art form and those who are the keepers of these traditions. Notably, Guariglia’s publication features a foreword written by the Abbot of the Shaolin Temple, Shi Yong Xin.

Justin Guariglia: Biography

Guariglia was born in Maplewood, New Jersey in 1974 and lived and worked in Asia for almost a decade before returning to live in New York City in 2006. He is a Contributing Editor to National Geographic Traveler Magazine and has worked for Smithsonian and Newsweek. Guariglia was nominated for the International Center of Photography’s Young Photographer Infinity Award, received an Eddie Adams Workshop award, and was named one of the top “30 Young Photographers under 30” by Photo District News. In 2003, Guariglia began collaborating with artist Zoe Chen, previously a fashion designer for Issey Miyake. Their recent works are gelatin silver print composite pieces and videos comprised of Guariglia’s photographs of the Shaolin monks. www.guariglia-chen.com

Expanded Events Information:

Monday, February 4, 7:30pm, Ben Maltz Gallery

Conversation: *Shaolin: Temple of Zen

Join photographer Justin Guariglia in a conversation with Gene Ching and Craig Reid about this exhibition and the traditions of China’s Shaolin monks. Justin Guariglia (see Bio above), Gene Ching is the Associate Publisher of Kung Fu Tai Chi Magazine and www.KungFuMagazine.com. He has authored hundreds of articles and videos on the martial arts; much of his research is devoted to Shaolin. He is a disciple of Shaolin Monk Shi Decheng and bears the name Xinglong. Craig Reid, Ph.D. was the first Caucasian stuntman/actor in Chinese kung-fu movies in 1979, lectured on combat choreography at Yale School of Drama and was Sam Raimi’s fight choreographer on Spy Game and a fight directing apprentice on CBS’s Martial Law. Reid was the screenwriter on the award-winning film Red Trousers: The Life of The Hong Kong Stuntmen, and is a freelance journalist writing on Asian martial arts cinema.

Monday, February 25, 7:30pm, Ben Maltz Gallery

Panel Discussion: *Cultural Representation in the Media

Otis Director of Art History Parme Giuntini moderates a panel discussion with Professors Félix Gutiérrez, Clint C. Wilson II, and Lena Chao-Young about the challenges of how cultural identity is constructed by the media. Parme Giuntini, Ph.D., has been Director of the Art History program at Otis since 2003. She is co-author of GARB: A Fashion and Culture Reader (2007), which examines the interplay between fashion, dress, culture, and identity. Lena Chao-Young, Ph.D., is a professor of Communication Studies at California State University, Los Angeles. She has worked as Media Director for the ACLU of Southern California, and as Public Service Coordinator for KFWB Newsradio. She was also on the founding board of the Media

Action Network for Asian Americans (MANAA), a watchdog group that monitors the media nationally for balanced and accurate portrayals of Asian Pacific Americans. Currently she serves as the Director for the Asian and Asian American Institute at Cal State, L.A. Félix Gutiérrez, Ph.D., is a Professor of Journalism and Communication in the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and a Professor of American Studies & Ethnicity. In 2004, Dr. Gutiérrez, along with Drs. Wilson and Chao-Young co-authored the book, Racism, Sexism, and the Media: The Rise of Class Communication in Multicultural America, which was awarded the Society of Professional Journalists' Sigma Delta Chi Award for Excellence in Research About Journalism. His scholarship and publications since 1972 have focused on racial diversity and media. Clint C. Wilson II, Ed.D., is Professor of Journalism in the John H. Johnson School of Communications and Graduate Professor in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Howard University. He is Director of the Black Press Institute and his book A History of the Black Press, was cited as among the 35 "most significant books of the 20th century" by Journalism and Mass Communication Quarterly.

Friday, February 29, 8pm, Ahmanson Bldg B06
Screening: A Night of Hong Kong Kung Fu Cinema

Join Craig Reid in the presentation of a double feature of renowned martial arts film director Liu Chia-Liang's films.

The 36th Chamber of Shaolin (1978) This award winning film traces the true-life story of Monk San Te (portrayed by Gordon Liu), one of the fabled Ten Tigers of Shaolin. This film opens the Shaolin temple doors and changed the direction Hong Kong kung-fu cinema.

Eight Diagram Pole Fighter (1983) Starring Alexander Fu Shen in his last film, this cinematic treat chronicles the heroics of the real-life Yang family men, which gave rise to the 9th century legendary Yang women warriors who successfully lead the Chinese army against foreign invaders.

Location: Otis College of Art and Design, 9045 Lincoln Blvd, Los Angeles, CA 90045

Admission and Parking: Free. Visitor parking in structure on La Tijera.

Hours: Tue-Sat 10am-5pm; Thu 10am-7pm. Closed Sun, Mon, and major holidays (Feb 16-18)

Gallery Office Hours: Mon-Fri 10am-5pm; Thu 10am-7pm

Information: 310.665.6905, galleryinfo@otis.edu, www.otis.edu/benmaltzgallery

Gallery Tours: 310.665.6909 to schedule tours for school, museum or other groups.

L-R: Photographer Justin Guariglia; Cover of Shaolin: Temple of Zen (Aperture, October 2007) by Justin Guariglia; Shi Yan Lang, Tong Jian Quan (Through the Shoulder Fist), Justin Guariglia from Shaolin: Temple of Zen (Aperture, October 2007); Shi Yan Xian (Small Hong Fist), Justin Guariglia from Shaolin: Temple of Zen (Aperture, October 2007).

Top: Wenseng monk Shi Yong Ji, Justin Guariglia from Shaolin: Temple of Zen (Aperture, October 2007)